A MODEST SUGGESTION.

The Hilo TRIBUNE modestly suggests the name of A. B. Lobenstein as a suitable person for Superintendent of Public Works, in case of vacancy. But really it is not necessary to roam so far afield as Hilo to find the right man. If the appointment is to leave Honolulu, W. F. Pogue of Maui is far away and one of the very best men on the Islands to fill that responsible position. Bull headedly honest, with a thorough conception of the needs of the Islands, and with an absolute genius for devising and executing work, W. F. Pogue is logically the one man for the position.—Maui News.

WHEN a modern editor of the liveliest weekly on earth confesses that he signs affidavits without reading them and makes an oath over the telephone and swears about it with the same recklessness, it is time for his friends to come to the rescue. Gold brick men will soon be on his trail. How awful it would have been had that affidavit been a promissory note for $25!

THE Senate started off in special session with smooth running gears. There are grounds for the belief that the present legislature will grind out good legislation in quantities to meet the exigencies of the times when it meets in regular session.

WHEN the "Early Riser" conveyed to the "Cheerful Liar" the information that the TRIBUNE man is a malicious liar, the overworked hero of the bum dialogue must have felt cheap.

A BANKER'S VIEWS.

Says One Industry is Not Sound Basis of Prosperity.

John Loyd, president of the German Savings and Loan Society of San Francisco, who left in the China last evening after his second tour of inspection of the island properties in which his institution has interests, and those related in a general way, sees a great future for Hawaii, but at the same time in friendly criticism of the methods, finds several points which appeal to him as capable of bettering. Going into the matter yesterday he said to the Advertiser:

"Of prime importance to the islands I should say is the necessity of finding some other product, which will divide with sugar the weight of investment by the people. I am not a farmer and cannot of course name such a product, but I am impressed with the need for some such different field crop. Perhaps it will prove that sisal, which is making a fine start, will be the crop which will solve the question of the use for lands which seem unprofitable for sugar. I cannot see either why there should go out of the islands such sums as must be spent for the sugar bags which are used in taking care of the crop. It certainly is possible to raise the jute needed, or to use a fibre from the sisal or other plants, and by making the bags here there would be kept in the country the money which now goes abroad. What if there is no saving effected, the money stays at home and the people are the direct gainers by it all. "Another point which appeals to me most forcibly is the amount of power, which is going to waste, in the water flowing uninterruptedly to the sea. I can see that there is sufficient horse power going to waste to run the pumps of all the plantations. There is no necessity to have the power right at hand. In California there are companies which plan to distribute electric power to a distance of 200 miles. In this way there might be developed a system of electric plants which would supply the power for all the pumps on the various plantations on the islands.

"I believe the time has come for the combination and the savings which will result therefrom. I cannot see why contiguous estates should be run independently, each at high cost for salaries and office forces. The brains which handle one of the estates could just as well take care of all the plantations which are close together, and there would be saved the expense attached to extra managerial forces. Indeed it would seem that the time is at hand when it might be wise to contemplate the amalgamation of properties, with a central milling plant at some good harbor, where the fuel expense would be slight and the cost of transportation would mean little in comparison. Another thing which might bear investigation would be the refining of the sugar at home, which would give the islands their own markets the world over, and would render them free from the necessity of giving profits to the sugar trust. All of these are things which appeal to one who comes for the purpose of investigating the conditions, and keeps his eyes open as he goes about.

"There is a future for Honolulu, and I believe it will be a great one. There seems to be sufficient number of store and office buildings now, to one who looks upon the city and realizes that there are less than 8000 Americans and Europeans in it. There are some really fine buildings, the Young building is one which would be a credit to any city in the world. Then too there are others which are excellent structures, which would not be out of place anywhere.
